Teaching methods	Due to the COVID-19 crisis, the information in this section is particularly likely to change. Group discussion based on questions previously exchanged will be privileged.
Content	In the last decade, there has been a proliferation of texts (narrative, poetic, essayistic) that stage and problematize life in the countryside', a field that would have become 'empty' (del Molino) after the massive migrations to the city brought about by the Franco regime. The course aims to put this recent trend in Spanish literature into perspective by presenting a historical overview which, through the analysis of some key texts, highlights the evolution of the representation of Spanish rural life and the literary implications of such a thematic choice.
