This biannual learning is being organized in 2021-2022

Teacher(s)	D'Aloisio Christophe ;
Language :	French
Place of the course	Louvain-la-Neuve
Main themes	To achieve that objective, - the activity will offer an introduction to the study of the different Eastern theologies ; - one will go into the thought of an author or into a specific theological question of one of the (Chalcedonian or not) Eastern traditions in depth.
Aims	The contribution of this Teaching Unit to the development and command of the skills and learning outcomes of the programme(s) can be accessed at the end of this sheet, in the section entitled "Programmes/courses offering this Teaching Unit".
Evaluation methods	Due to the COVID-19 crisis, the information in this section is particularly likely to change. Short essay followed by an oral examination
Teaching methods	Due to the COVID-19 crisis, the information in this section is particularly likely to change. Unless otherwise stated, course given in class.
Content	THEO2331 - Eastern Theology - Christophe D'Aloisio The course is structured in two main parts, one offering a panorama of the Eastern and Oriental Christian traditions (Byzantine, non-Chalcedonian, non-Ephesian and Eastern Rite Catholic) and the other proposing to enter into the thought of a major author representative of one of these traditions, through the critical analysis of his theological work. The first part includes interdisciplinary sections, invoking both the theological traditions of the corresponding communities and historical, sociological, socio-anthropological, literary and political approaches, so that the student can understand Eastern theologies both in their historical past and in the current challenges they face. The second part consists, on the one hand, of a general presentation of the work of a representative theologian of Eastern Christianity and, on the other hand, of a study of excerpts from his work. Both the first and the second part of the course do not aim to provide the student with encyclopaedic knowledge of such a vast subject, but to enable him or her to identify the relevant working tools in this field of research and to learn how to use them in concrete situations.
