Prerequisites	The prerequisite(s) for this Teaching Unit (Unité d'enseignement – UE) for the programmes/courses that offer this Teaching Unit are specified at the end of this sheet.
Learning outcomes	At the end of this learning unit, the student is able to : At the end of the course, students should be able to <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - critically approach an author, a literary text, period, movement or critical method; - produce a structured, well-argued discourse that integrates the specific vocabulary and concepts used in literary studies; - analyse a literary text using the knowledge acquired through the course.
Evaluation methods	2-hour written exam (without access to the course material or reference books).
Teaching methods	Lectures. Students are encouraged to actively prepare and take part in the discussions through weekly compulsory tasks. The lectures make ample use of audio-visual material and technologies (extracts from film adaptations or performances, interactive quizzes with voting devices, etc.).
Content	This course focuses on the concept of rewriting (including postcolonial and postmodern reconfigurations) through the detailed analysis of texts like Jean Rhys' "Wide Sargasso Sea", which reconfigures Charlotte Brontë's "Jane Eyre", or Michael Cunningham's postmodern rewriting of Virginia Woolf's "Mrs Dalloway", entitled "The Hours". This course includes 8 hours of workshops. These sessions are meant to help students become more familiar with the texts thanks to activities in which the extracts discussed in class are approached from a different angle. The workshops also include writing tasks and/or short presentations. The workshops sessions are intended for block 2 students, although block 3 students are welcome to attend.
