Language :	French
Place of the course	Louvain-la-Neuve
Main themes	Historical analysis of the social dimension of the European integration: social policy, free movement of workers, employment policy, social protection (open method of coordination), structural funds, social dialogue, social consequences of the monetary union, social exclusion, social challenges of enlargement.
Learning outcomes	At the end of this learning unit, the student is able to : 1 The aim is that the student will be able to understand the legal framework, to identify the political dynamics and actors strategies, and to analyse the challenges in the historical perspective. It also covers some aspects of political economy linked to the social challenges of EMU. The course links the analysis of a sectorial policy with the European integration theories.
Evaluation methods	Paper (45%) Individual work, topic chosen by the student and approved by the Professor, related to the issues covered in the course. Describe the evolution of a current social issue, highlighting how the policy/instrument has emerged, changed and developed over time, and which actors support/oppose it. Between 3,600 and 4,400 words. Deadline: January 10, 2024. Oral exam (45%) Class participation (10%) Interactive course: questions and answers (including "My week in Europe" at the beginning of each course, briefly introduced by students).
Content	The teaching is built on an historical analysis which distinguishes between various periods of the European social policy. For each period four variables are used: level of diversity of the national social systems, economic and social environment and balance between left and right, main social themes and mode of governance (convergence, upward harmonisation, minimal standards'). It will combine legal, political science and political economy approaches placing the social policy dynamic in a broader context.
