Students who sit the final exam in August have the choice of sitting the failed skill(s) OR the whole exam if they wish to improve their grade. Students must explicitly inform their teacher of their choice no later than the first day of the session.
Teaching methods	This interfaculty course is aimed at the international students and staff of UCLouvain. It encourages contact between students and interaction with the teacher. Based on the CEFR (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages), the course takes into account the multiple intelligences of the students, with reflective, communicative and action-oriented tasks. The pedagogical approach is decidedly interactive and relies on collective intelligence. The course takes place face-to-face, but some activities/sessions could be held on Teams if distance learning offers added pedagogical value.
Content	This one hour per week course is designed for non-French speaking students at level A1.1 and above (it is not suitable for complete beginners) who wish to improve their phonetic and oral production skills. The aim of this interactive course is to work on pronunciation in action, with the help of the group and the body. The body allows you to feel the rhythm of a language with your senses, not just your mind. Being active helps with memorisation, as opposed to sitting passively. Each week participants are given a short dialogue to memorise and/or a group activity to work on and memorise a pronunciation target. Using a variety of resources and aids, students are encouraged to develop strategies and an overall positive attitude towards French pronunciation.
