Language :	French
Place of the course	Louvain-la-Neuve
Learning outcomes
Evaluation methods	Sessions are assessed : primarily, in the form of a five-hour in-class test organized after the last session and consisting, for example, of a commentary on case law, the resolution of a case or the drafting of a pleading ; on a secondary basis, in the form of continuous assessment or points awarded on the basis of student participation in practical work sessions, or an oral presentation.
Teaching methods	Sessions are held face-to-face. However, students may be required to perform tasks outside the classroom (e.g. watching a video, listening to a podcast, reading a text, etc.).
Content	The practical work in the first block of the Master of Law program is designed to provide a practical approach to the subject matter covered in one of the courses in the Master 1 program. It takes place over four two-hour sessions spread over the first or second four-month period, depending on the subject in which it is taken. All or part of the practical work can be carried out in a language other than French, such as English or Dutch.
Inline resources	The course material (documentation and exercises) is posted on Moodle.
Other infos	Some practical work is carried out in English or Dutch.
Faculty or entity in charge	BUDR
